

WILLKIE AND McNARY TO HEAD TICKET CHOSEN BY G. O. P.

Will Confer in Washington Some Time Next Week About Campaign

TO SELECT CHAIRMAN

Indications Are That Hamilton Will Retire and Successor Chosen

By William K. Hutchinson (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PHILADELPHIA, June 29—During President Roosevelt to run for a third term, Wendell Willkie, youthful Republican standard-bearer, today sought a week-end's rest before entering upon his campaign for the Presidency of the United States.

Willkie faced the campaign with supreme confidence, urged Congress to remain in session, denied being an "interventionist" and independently reserved the right to interpret the G. O. P. platform of "peace, preparedness and Americanism" for himself.

As for Roosevelt and the third term, he quietly observed:

"I want to meet the champ."

Willkie will go to Washington probably next week to confer with his running-mate, Senator Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, since the G. O. P. Vice-Presidential nominee is tied to the Capitol as Republican leader of the Senate which resumes sessions Monday. They will talk over plans for the campaign, for a Willkie notification ceremony at his home-town, Elwood, Indiana, and for enunciating his own policies for the 1940 race.

It is certain that Willkie will discuss with McNary the question of electing a new national chairman to replace John D. M. Hamilton, named four years ago by Governor Alf M. Landon, the 1936 nominee. The way was paved for Hamilton's retirement when Kansas passed him up as national committeeman and elected Harry D. Byrd in his place. Hamilton was elected to the committee in 1936 to accelerate his choice as national chairman.

A number of names have been suggested as Hamilton's successor. On the list is Kenneth F. Simpson of New York.

Mackin-Gallagher Nuptial Ceremony Takes Place Today

ANDALUSIA, June 29—At a nuptial mass in St. Charles R. C. Church this morning at nine o'clock, Miss Elmore Gallagher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gallagher, became the bride of Mr. Earl Mackin, Mayfair. The Rev. Father Raymond Mackin, brother of the groom, officiated. Serving as organist was Mrs. R. McCarthy, and the soloist was Mr. Wendel Young.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in white marquisette, her dress featuring a long train. A finger tip veil and white satin slippers were worn; and she carried a colonial bouquet.

The maid of honor was Miss Margaret Gallagher, sister of the bride, her dress being of blue marquisette with a fitted bodice and short puffed sleeves.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mary McNulty, Mrs. Tillie Cannon and Miss Sally Maguire, Philadelphia. Their gowns were of pink marquisette, fashioned like that of the maid of honor. The attendants wore doll hats, matching the gowns, with slippers of the same color. Bouquets were colonial style.

The groom's attendant was Mr. John Dooner, Mayfair; and ushers were Messrs. James Dinson, Benjamin Canty and Ernest Schurbaum, Mayfair.

After the ceremony breakfast was served to 60 guests at the Lido Venice, a reception following at the home of the bride's parents.

For her honeymoon trip, the bride wore a blue and white suit, with white accessories. Mrs. Gallagher mother of the bride, wore a dress of pink chiffon with a pink lace jacket, and white accessories. Mrs. Mackin, mother of the groom, was attired in blue, with white accessories.

Surprise Affair Is In Honor of Mrs. Strauss

On the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Poulette, Bridgewater, a surprise birthday party was given Thursday evening in honor of Mrs. Lehman Strauss, wife of the pastor of Calvary Baptist Church.

Tennis was enjoyed; and Jackson Bauer showed movies which included pictures taken on Mr. and Mrs. Bauer's wedding trip, and Bermuda, also pictures of Africa and groups at the church.

Refreshments were served to 74. John Tomlinson presented a sum of money to Mrs. Strauss from members of the church.

CAROL MASSES TROOPS TO STOP RUSSIA'S GRAB

Russians and Rumanians To Meet Later Today at Odessa For Conference

RUMANIA'S CHOICE SLIM

By International News Service
With Russian troops occupying Besarabia, northern Bukovina and more—more than was called for in Moscow's ultimatum to Bucharest—King Carol today massed his troops to prevent further incursion upon his territory by Bulgaria and Hungary.

The Russians and Rumanians were to meet later today in Odessa to discuss details of their agreement—an agreement in which Rumania has but little choice except absolute capitulation to the Soviet demands. But while Carol has been forced by circumstances to bow to the demands of the Russian bear, to all appearances he is determined to fight before knuckling down to Hungary's claim to Transylvania and Bulgaria's demand for Dobruja.

Meanwhile, the Germans again launched widespread bombing attacks upon England, and although casualties and damage in England were reported slight, at least 29 persons had been killed and scores wounded during the past 24 hours in Nazi raids upon the channel islands of Jersey and Guernsey.

Far from the actual scene of conflict in Europe, Japan today warned the world to keep hands off East Asia, and this warning includes the South Seas. Japanese foreign minister Arita broadcast a message stating that Japan was establishing a "Monroe Doctrine" in the Far East, and warned the world against challenging Japanese domination in East Asia. He said that the United States has no right to object to Japan's stand, inasmuch as America has a "Monroe Doctrine" of her own demanding that foreign powers keep hands off the territories of the Americas.

Arita stated that the American policy in the Pacific is dependent upon the British, and he pointedly remarked that the British defeat in Europe had removed America's power "to her own coastline."

Marshal Balbo Dead

Rome, June 29—Death of Marshal Italo Balbo in the course of an air battle between Italian and British planes over Tobruk, Libya, was announced today.

Italy's famous flying statesman, frequently mentioned as a possible successor to Premier Mussolini, was killed with all members of his crew when his fighting plane crashed in flames.

Balbo, military governor of Libya, temporarily gave up his administrative duties to resume service with the air force when Italy declared war on Britain and France on June 10. The bearded aerial ace was a former Italian air minister.

The brief official statement said: "During June 28, while flying over Tobruk during enemy bombing action, the airplane piloted by Marshal Italo Balbo fell in flames. Signor Balbo and members of his crew were killed. The flags of Italy's armed forces have been lowered in sign of homage to the memory of Marshal Balbo."

One of the Fascist "big four" who led the march on Rome, Balbo was a swashbuckling figure who invariably made good his boasts and who to most Italians and Americans was a reincarnation of the fearless figures of the Renaissance.

Italian Minister of Air at the age of 33, Balbo four years later led the history-making flight of 24 Italian planes from Rome to Chicago. He was 44 at the time of his death.

Several Water Services Discontinued Yesterday

A number of water services were discontinued yesterday by orders of the Water Committee of Bristol Borough Council.

Services were discontinued where bills had not been paid. But upon payment being made the water was again turned on and the service restored.

The Water Committee stated that due notice has been given to every delinquent and that delinquencies must be paid or the service will be discontinued.

Employees of the Water Department will continue on Monday to check the properties where the bills have not been paid. The water will be turned off, at that time water will be turned off, at the expiration date of the notice which has been given.

Willkie Plans Brief Rest

Philadelphia, June 29—In preparation for the aggressive campaign which he plans to wage against the New Deal, Wendell L. Willkie, Presidential nominee of the Republican party, wound up his conferences with party leaders today and sat back for a quiet week-end.

His immediate plans were to spend tonight on Publisher Roy Howard's yacht, arriving in New York some time Sunday. On Monday he will resign as President of Commonwealth & Southern Corporation. The next few days he will spend in cleaning up his affairs with the utility corporation and then head into the country for a two- or three-week rest.

He looks tired and he is tired after almost eight days of confinement in hotel rooms, two conferences with his convention supporters, breakfast sessions with delegates and a continuing round of meetings with casual visitors in his rooms.

As yet he has not decided when he will receive official notification of his nomination, but he is almost sold on the idea of having the ceremony staged on the steps of the high school in Elwood, Indiana.

FIVE DEATHS DUE TO FIRES REPORTED IN BUCKS COUNTY

Fire Loss To Property in The County Estimated at $290,-111 During 12 Months

GROOME IS RE-ELECTED

James E. Groome Begins His 25th Consecutive Year As President

PERKASIE, June 29—Five deaths by fire in Bucks County were recorded for the past year included in the annual report of the Bucks County fire marshal, presented at the annual meeting of Bucks County Firemen's Association in the fire station, here, last evening.

The meeting, on the eve of the annual firemen's parade, was presided over by James E. Groome, Yardley, who was re-elected president, to serve for his 25th consecutive year in that capacity.

Fire marshal Raymond E. Strunk, Quakertown, in giving his report for the year just ended, June 1, 1939, to June 1, 1940, showed that the loss by fire in those 12 months was $290,111, with insurance of property and contents destroyed amounting to $345,925; and value of property endangered being $524,430.

Those chosen as officers of the county organization last evening were: Vice presidents, the Hon. Thomas B. Stockham, Morrisville; Lloyd Y. Crouthamel, Dublin; Charles V. Eban, Newtown; recording secretary, H. Clinton Reiff, Silverdale; treasurer, Louis C. Leedom, Yardley; financial secretary, W. C. Stauffer, Sellersville; trustees, Frank Faust, New Hope, three years; Winfield Cox, Morrisville, two years; Victor C. Smith, Quakertown, one year; fire marshal, Raymond E. Strunk, Quakertown; state delegate, Max Cummings, Quakertown.

In his report, Mr. Strunk also informed that the number of alarms in the past year were 451; field and woods fires, 159; dwellings destroyed, 17; dwellings partly destroyed, 42; barns destroyed, 25, with five by lightning; outbuildings burned, 21. A comparison with the report of a year ago shows that the fire loss reported then was $171,142; barns burned, 29.

Those who lost their lives by fire during the past year were listed as: William Horthorne, Philadelphia, burned at Bristol; Fred Pope, Bristol; John Radcliffe, Doylestown; May L. Skagen, Coopersburg; Fred Patterson, Quakertown.

Mr. Strunk mentioned the arson cases of the year: that of Adam Greenberg, charged with setting fire to his Black Cat Inn near Plumsteadville in October, 1938, with trial last September; found guilty, applied for new trial, at which he was again found guilty; not sentenced yet. Credit was given last evening to Plumsteadville firemen for activities in bringing Greenberg to trial. Another arson case mentioned was that of Anthony Ithlak, charged with setting fire to the barn of Frank Laska, Eddington, in July of 1939. His trial was in September. Found not guilty, he was discharged.

A number of new pieces of firefighting apparatus have made their appearance in the county during the last period, these being purchased by following companies: Trumbauersville, William Penn Company of Hulmeville, Perkasie; Midway Company, of Lahaska; Newport Company; Erwinna, and Newtown.

BASEBALL—TWO STYLES

Baseball is the Great American Game, but there is more than one way in which to play it—and to watch it. The professional player of course, is out there for one paramount purpose—to play to win. Club owners and business managers naturally recognize the fact that spectators come to the ball park in the hope of seeing the home team win; but they also recognize the fans' love of excitement and an occasional outburst of something approaching violence.

The business managements of some ball clubs are inclined to over-emphasize this phase of baseball interest. Perhaps the most conspicuous over-emphasizer is Larry McPhail, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, a team that has caused plenty of excitement in the National League this season.

Not long ago, Joe Medwick, star outfielder acquired from Saint Louis by Brooklyn, was hit in the head by a pitched ball in a game against his former team-mates. Medwick hadn't been getting along well with his fellow-players in Saint Louis, which was one reason why he was traded to Brooklyn. When Medwick fell unconscious at the plate, McPhail rushed out on the field, loudly accused Bob Bowman, the Saint Louis pitcher, of intentionally injuring Medwick, and challenged the pitcher and other Saint Louis players to fight.

This steamed up the Brooklyn crowd immensely, and police had to escort Bowman to safety after the game.

So emphatic was McPhail in his charges against Bowman that the local prosecuting attorney began an investigation. President Frick of the National League also investigated. Both investigations blew up after players of the two clubs—including the injured Medwick—testified that the whole thing was an accident. It further developed that Bowman and Medwick had been good friends when the latter still was on the Saint Louis team, and that their "feud" was purely a figment of the imagination.

But the excitement packed the spectators in for the St. Louis-Brooklyn game next day—and that made Mr. McPhail very happy.

A few days later at the Polo Grounds where the New York Giants hold forth Billy Jurges, Giant shortstop, was knocked unconscious by a ball thrown by Bucky Walters, star pitcher of the champion Cincinnati Reds. When Jurges came to, Walters apologized; and the half-conscious Jurges muttered: "That's all right, Bucky. Forget it!"

That sums up the ballplayers' attitude. There is more real sportsmanship among these fellows who play ball for a living—and play to win—than there is among club owners eager to "pack them in at the gate," or among those who pay their good money to be packed in.

ABOUT SCOUTS AND SCOUTING

The material used in this column will be contributed by the Scribes of the following units and Scouters interested in the work: Bristol Presbyterian Church, Scout Troop 3002, Cub Pack 3002; Harriman Methodist Church, Scout Troop 3007; St. James' Episcopal Church, Scout Troop 3025, Cub Pack 3025; Group of Citizens headed by Walter Pitzonka, Troop No. 3048; Bristol B. P. O. E. Seascouts "Elks" 5052.

Sixty Scouters, Seascouts and Explorer Scouts spent last week-end at the new Bucks County Boy Scout camp site near Point Pleasant, working to get the new property in shape for camp this Summer. Plumbers, electricians, carpenters and painters were present and a great deal was accomplished.
During the week-end three Scouters were initiated into the Order of the Arrow, the National Camping Fraternity. They were Robert Loper, Sr., Scoutmaster Troop No. 44 of Newportville; S. A. Miller, Neighborhood Commissioner of South Langhorne; and Field Scout Executive John J. Lee of Doylestown.

A similar week-end will be held this Saturday and it is expected that many of the projects now under way will be completed at this time. Approximately one-half mile of water pipe is being laid, 31 tent platforms have already been constructed and seven sites cleared and prepared for Troops for this summer. Camp will open on Saturday, July 12th and close on Saturday, August 10th. The opening has been delayed, due to a hold up on the part of the steel mill, of the necessary steel to be used on the 3,000-gallon water storage tank. Following the use of the camp by the boys, it has been offered to the Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls, but they have not decided at this time whether they wish to use it this year.
The Executive Board of the Council, composed of 32 members representing almost every community in the county, will meet at the new camp property on Monday night to decide on a name for the camp, and also to discuss other matters in connection with the operation of the Council, and the Fall Finance Campaign. The meeting will start with a steak dinner at 6:15, to which the wives of the Board members have been invited.

MEETING OF TROOP NO. 2

The meeting was called to order by the scoutmaster at 7:30. There were 24 present and two leaders. After going through general routine, we played game of "Capture the Flag" and "Tw. Deep," and the meeting was closed.

On Friday, the Explorer Patrol went to the Bristol District Camp and received their Vesture Ceremony from Southampton. After that the rest of the evening was spent in a "doggie" roast. The Troop Committee was present, also, and each enjoyed himself.
On Saturday the Explorer Patrol went to the World's Fair. After they came home from the Fair they went to the new Scout camp and remained until Wednesday.

TROOP NO. 7

The meeting of Troop No. 7 on June 21, 1940, was assembled by the bugler and was followed by an address by Rev. Matchette. The boys then played softball, after which they were assembled in the basement of the church and had inspection and collection of dues. The troop was dismissed by the bugler.

A SCOUT'S DUTY TO HIS COUNTRY

What is a Boy Scout's duty to his America? What does he owe to the land which gives him free education things to enjoy and do and also the chance to be what he wants to be?
To obey her laws? Yes. To respect her institutions? Yes—but more, to be a willingly live for America as thousands of patriots have been eager to die for America. To die for one's country calls for supreme courage—but to live aught, to work, to produce, to help, to save, to obey the nation's laws to be trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent day after day in little things; calls for as much courage spread over longer time—but that is good citizenship.

Everybody Votes for Homemade Jelly

By BETTY BARCLAY

Party dissension in the family? Try a cooking caucus! Homemade raspberry jelly brings purrs even from the fiercest of political lions. Republicans and Democrats alike unite in songs of praise for a jam of spicy garden plums. Yes, sweeter than a campaign promise, and far more reliable—are the fresh fruit spreads of this election year.

With modern, foolproof directions it's much easier to make jelly than it is to decide how to vote. The job's all done fifteen minutes after preparing fruit. You get half-again more glasses the new way. And the flavor of these particular spreads is enough to sweeten even the temper of a losing candidate:

RIPE RED RASPBERRY JELLY

(Makes about 11 medium glasses)

4 cups juice
7½ cups sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare juice, crush thoroughly or grind about 3 quarts fully ripe raspberries. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice.

Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix.

Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once.

RIPE PLUM JAM

4 cups prepared fruit
5 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, pit (do not peel) about 2½ pounds fully ripe plums. Cut in small pieces and crush; add ¼ cup water, bring to a boil, and simmer, covered, 5 minutes.

Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 5- to 6-quart kettle, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary.

Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, ¼ teaspoon butter may be added.) Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 9 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

"Flying Blind" by VERA BROWN

SYNOPSIS

▲ Tex Aimes, happy-go-lucky, daredevil pilot, wins the main event of the national air races in which his friend, Marvin Stone, is killed. It was a trying ordeal for the young widow, Elsie Stone, but Tex's wife, Judith, stands by to lend all possible aid. Judith wishes Tex were on hand to help, but he is celebrating with his buddies. Instead, it is Michael Dudley, young airline general manager, who is the friend in need. He arranges for Elsie to stay at the home of his friends, the Duttons, where she will have every comfort. Judith goes with her. As Michael leaves for the fliers' banquet, Judith asks him to let Tex know where she is; but, after it is over, it is Michael who returns to ascertain how they are faring—not Tex. The latter sends a message to his wife that he will see her in the morning as they are giving him a big party that night. When Judith learns it is Sonia Winthrop, wealthy young aviatrix, who is teting Tex, she is disturbed because of recent rumors linking the woman with Tex. Elsie's aunt arrives. Judith, Lee Hoyt and Lem Davis (fellow aviators of the late Marvin) are trying to figure how they will be able to raise enough money to defray Elsie's traveling expenses back to Oklahoma when Michael Dudley generously gives Judith a check for $500. Later, in her hotel lobby, Judith meets Mary Hartwig, another flier, who invites her to tea. Two late, Judith realizes that Mary is with a party including Sonia. The latter greets Judith with, "I'm so glad to meet you, Mrs. Aimes; I admire your husband so much."

CHAPTER NINE

"We missed you last night, Judith. It didn't seem the same with you not there." Mary was speaking—Mary who refused to believe evil of anybody. If she heard any gossip, she'd refuse to listen.

"I was sorry that you couldn't come. It was a lovely party, wasn't it, girls?" Sonia's voice tinkled!

Judith, forcing herself to look at Sonia, admitted she was everything everybody said: beautiful, charming. Conscious of her own appearance, Judith suffered agonies. She felt the curious eyes of some of the girls. She forced herself to talk. Why had she come? Mary was such an old stupid, bless her heart! It would never occur to her things might be difficult.

Sonia, taking Judith's measure, decided she was wiser than she had imagined at first.

"But you're coming tonight, of course," Sonia was saying. "It's going to be very grand. Tex promised you would."

"It's terribly kind of you," Judith managed. "But it's impossible. You see Tex is pretty upset over Marvin Stone. He won't want to go out."

"He'll want to come, I'm sure."

Judith could have slapped her.

Besides, Jameson is pretty impatient. Tex should know him better. He can do things for Tex."

Judith knew Sonia flew for Jameson's company sometimes. He had backed her cross-country race. The proprietary tone in the girl's voice exasperated Judith.

It was almost six when Judith finally escaped from Mary and the girls. Her husband, Tex, had not come. She did not even bother to turn on the light in their room; just threw herself on the bed. Her head ached badly and her heart worse.

She must have dozed off for it was dark when she heard Tex's key in the door. He did not realize at first that she was there, for he did not switch on the light, either. An electric sign, flashing across the street, lit the room suddenly and he saw her on the bed. Maybe it was only her fancy, but she thought she saw a "testing" look of impatience when he knew that she was there.

"Darling!" Judith's voice was tender as he sat down on the bed.

Tex put both arms around her and she could feel his shoulders shake. She smoothed his hair, kissed the top of his head. It was a long time before he regained his composure. The room was very quiet. Then he began to talk.

"It was awful. I saw him go, Judith. I'd turned the pylon and looked back. He was flying a sweet race. Then I saw his wing crumple and he hit." Tex's voice choked. "Then the flames." Judith tried to soothe him.

"I don't know how I got around

Judith stretched out her hand. "Come over here and sit beside me."

He came, but he seemed suddenly to resent the fact she had seen him with his defenses down. They remained there in silence which became more and more painful, until Judith was glad when the telephone rang. Tex answered. He talked in monosyllables. Judith was certain it was Sonia. When he hung up, he turned to her impatiently.

"Lord, I forgot! We've got to go out to a dinner party tonight. Some brass hats of the town!" Judith protested. "We can't, Tex. Not tonight!" She couldn't bear that.

"It was awful! I saw him go, Judith," Tex's voice choked.

the next pylon. I kicked the ship up too sharp and everything went black. I thought I was a goner, too." He stood up impatiently. "It's a crazy game, Judith. I'll never race again. I've lost my nerve. He's the only guy in the world I cared much about!"

Without waiting for her to speak he went over and switched on a light, took a bottle from his traveling bag, poured himself a drink, stepped into the bathroom to get ice water. When he came back his face was a mask. He was himself again.

"How's Elsie tonight?" "She's asleep better. The doctor put her to bed."

Suddenly talking seemed difficult. She wanted to tell Tex how sorry she was for the quarrel of the day before. But somehow she couldn't, he seemed very far away from her now. He talked on.

"I want to forget it. If I hadn't got stiff last night I'd have gone nuts! It's all my fault. I shouldn't have let him get in that race, not with his ship." He walked over to the window. "I think I'll start selling insurance!"

Judith was afraid he was going to pieces again; but he added in a muffled voice: "I've seen a lot of 'em go but Marvin was the best."

better than I am. I don't deserve the breaks I get!"

"Got to. I promised."

"You go. That will be all right." The thought of dressing, sitting through interminable courses, talking to strange people . . . it was horrible.

"I just told them I'd bring you." There was a defiant set to Tex's chin which Judith knew so well.

"I can't do it, I can't." Judith was firm.

"I tell you, we've got to. It's being given for us. Sonny Winthrop arranged it. . . Jameson's giving it."

Judith still held out. "They'll understand. They know how much Marvin meant to you. . ."

What that got to do with it? What do you want to do, stay here in this room and just stare at each other? I can't stand it I tell you. I've got to do something. I'd go nuts here!"

The words cut. She got up slowly. "All right."

She went to the clothes closet, got out her evening frock. She'd go. She'd look her best. If that's the way Sonia wanted it, that's the way it would be. If it was a declaration of war, Judith made up her mind she would fight. Tex was worth it! . . . Was he?

Church Wedding Here Unites Miss Nagel and Mr. Platon

At an early evening nuptial ceremony in Zion Lutheran Church, last evening, Miss Anneliese S. Nagel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nagel, 1049 Radcliffe street, became the bride of Homer C. Platon, 1104 Radcliffe street, with the Rev. Paul R. Ronge officiating in the pulpit. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Platon, Long Island, N. Y.

The ceremony at six o'clock took place before a company of relatives and friends of the contracting parties; with William Lyndall, Trenton, N. J., serving as organist.

Mr. Nagel gave his daughter in marriage. The bride wore an ensemble of white sharkskin, the blouse being in white-colored stripes, which material was also effectively used as trim for the white jacket. The skirt as well as her accessories were of white; the hat being of straw and grosgrain ribbon. She wore a corsage of pink roses and baby breath.

Miss Betty Smoyer, Garfield street, who served as maid of honor, was attired in a white dress with white redingote. The sharkskin costume had trim of red and white dotted silk; her hat and accessories were of white, and her corsage of pink and white carnations and baby breath.

The best man was Arthur Liese, Mulberry street.

Following their return from a honeymoon journey, Mr. and Mrs. Platon will reside in an apartment at 1104 Radcliffe street. For the trip, Mrs. Platon chose a costume of a silk jersey, with skirt of white, and a jacket of green shantung. Her hat and other accessories were of white.

For the ceremony, Mrs. Nagel, mother of the bride, wore a light green chiffon dress, redingote style, with straw hat and accessories of white. Mrs. Platon, mother of the groom, was attired in a dark blue redingote ensemble, with matching hat. Each wore a corsage of white carnations.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

Here they come, America's first screen family, the Joneses, "On Their Own," which opens today at the Grand Theatre.

Their pockets are empty, but their hearts are full of fun as they storm California in an attempt to overcome the string of bad luck that has laid up Pa Jones, and taken their home. They have a trailer and the family car, and that's all—but when they get through, they have a bungalow court full of amusing tenants including a troupe of trained dogs, eight fascinating bachelors, an inventor and an ex-actress, who never stops acting. Once more illustrating the fact that truth is stranger and more dramatic than fiction, "Edison, the Man," filmization of the career of Thomas A. Edison, opens Sunday at the Grand Theatre with Spencer Tracy in the starring role.

RITZ THEATRE

Dramatically presenting the first picturization of the method of restoring insane patients to normalcy, "Dr. Kildare's Strange Case," latest of the "Dr. Kildare" pictures, opens at the Ritz Theatre Sunday night for two days.

Fourth of the dramatic hospital stories, with Lew Ayres as the impetuous young intern, Dr. Jimmy Kildare, and Lionel Barrymore as the irascible but great diagnostician, "Dr. Kildare's Strange Case" concerns itself with Ayres' lone-handed fight to prove that a surgeon-friend is unjustly accused of performing a delicate brain operation that caused madness in the patient.

BRISTOL THEATRE

Bob Livingston, Raymond Hatton and Duncan Renaldo ride again at the Bristol Theatre! "Covered Wagon Days," their latest Republic vehicle, opened last evening. If sheer, unadulterated horror delights you, then the Bristol Theatre Mrs. Rose Marino Peter Bono 1.00 off's latest shocker, "The Man With Nine Lives," is the place for you. A power-mad scientist with an invention that will rock the world, and five helpless creatures one-fifth their normal size are the principals in the screen's most startling drama, "Dr.

Cyclops," Sunday at the Bristol Theatre.

K. OF C. GOES INTO SECOND PLACE IN LEAGUE

With Rannie on Mound, They Defeat Profy Team By Score of 4 to 2

SCORE 2 RUNS IN FIRST

Single by Joe Dolan Does The Trick for The Visitors

The Knights of Columbus softball team leaped into second place in the Community League last evening by winning out over the Profy team, 4-2, on the Pine street field.

The mound work for the winners was done by "Bill" Rannie in capturing the fray. Rannie allowed the radiomen but three safe hits. In the last three games in which he has toiled, Rannie has allowed the opposition but seven hits.

Battering Frank Mignoni for a pair of runs in the fifth gave the Knights the victory. It was a single by Joe Dolan which did the trick. With one gone, Brown singled to center, Mulligan worked Mignoni for a pass, Murphy grounded out, advancing both runners. Dolan upset the works by singling to right, scoring both Brown and Mulligan.

Leaders for the winning club on the defense were Mike Murphy, Joe Quigley, and Joe Dolan with Tim Slater doing nicely on the backing up part. Grimes did some good fielding for the losers.

"Dates" Pegely pulled the fielding gem of the evening in the initial frame when he snared Tommy Muffett's line drive to deep center which was labeled for at least a triple.

George Brown and Johnny Cole led the Knights with the stick power that spoiled an enjoyable evening for the Mill streeters.

TENNIS MATCHES TO BE PLAYED TOMORROW

The Bristol Tennis Club will get into match competition on its courts at Corson and Buckley streets tomorrow when its second team players meet the second team members of the Alpha Tennis Club, Langhorne.

The schedule, which includes four singles matches and three doubles matches, will get under way at 9.45.

The Bristol Club, organized at the close of last season, was formerly the Elks' Club. The officers of the club, which now has 26 members, include: Ralph Ratcliffe, president; William Conca, vice-president; Harry Pope, secretary-treasurer. The manager and ground-keeper is Thomas Tanner.

Tanner, who has complete charge of the courts and grounds, states, "We claim to have the finest courts in this part of the country." The condition of the courts bears out Tanner's statement. Improvements this year include a rebuilt dugout and judges' stand. A new flag staff has also been erected over the dugout.

Tanner spends a portion of every day in keeping the courts in top-notch shape.

Membership in the Club is still open, according to a statement by one of the officers.

Among the members are such outstanding tennis players as Nelson Green, Herb Lawrence and Al Lazarovich.

About two weeks ago a Junior Bristol Tennis Club was organized by the present club. Any young man of high school age is eligible to join, according to Mr. Tanner. No. 2 court is available to the Junior members on Mondays, Tuesday, Thursdays, Fridays, and other times when available, it was stated. Joseph Foster and William Vieth are managers of the Junior Club. Coaching is provided by members of the Senior Club. Anyone interested in joining is advised to contact one of the officers or Mr. Tanner.

The Juniors are arranging a match for the near future with the Spitz Tennis Club of the 6th Ward.

The complete schedule for tomorrow's matches is as follows: 9.45, second singles and second doubles; 11, third singles and first doubles; 12.15, first singles and third doubles; 1.30, fourth singles and third doubles; 1.30, fourth singles.

The public is cordially invited to come and witness these matches.

GAMES CALLED OFF

The three games of the Bristol Suburban League scheduled for last evening were called off because of wet grounds. Wednesday night, a postponed game between Voltz-Texaco and King Supply will be played on the Rohm & Haas field.

drive-ways, and other points where necessary, some motorists seem of the opinion they are privileged characters, and park along the yellow line regardless.

'Cyclists, many of them being of the opinion that they are not required to obey traffic rules and signals, ride "through" red lights, thus making motorists on the cross streets use utmost care in watching out for safety of the cyclists.

At some points in town, such as in front of the two banking institutions, and other places, it has become necessary to place "no parking" signs, yet between those signs many a car slides to a stop and there remains for lengthy periods. Should there be a suggestion that the signs are put there for a purpose, we well imagine that Mr. Motorist's feelings might be hurt, for some think those signs are for the other fellow.

Another cause for common complaint emanates from those who find the path of their car blocked by a motorist, who unable to find a parking space just where he or she wants it, makes a double parking line, thus halting on-coming traffic.

The method of line-up at dead-ends of one-way streets comes in for a "scoring" from many. The general complaint from individuals who use Market and Mulberry streets, is that motorists who plan to turn left halt their cars in the right-hand lane at the lights, while many wishing to turn right find their path blocked frequently until cars ahead make a left-hand turn from the wrong lane.

We presume the answers to these problems will be long in arriving. It takes time to accustom motorists to proper regard for signals, traffic lanes, and parking, even in their own town where they drive every day.

Bristol's big traffic problem on busy business streets was solved when one-way traffic was put into effect—and not only residents but visitors have benefited. So in time, but it may be a long time, we hope the operators of cars will better learn to regard the rules and regulations.

Joseph McDevitt And Rose C. Flanagan Wed

Flanagan wore a floor-length gown, train, of white chiffon, lace trimmed. A flat collar of lace enhanced the high neck-line, and the puffed sleeves were short. The gown had a form-fitting bodice and wide belt-line. The veil of white net fell gracefully from a crown of pearls. Her slippers were of white satin, and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies and baby breath.

The matron of honor, Mrs. McDevitt, was attired in light blue; and the bridesmaid, Miss Ennis, in pink. The dresses, of mousseline de soie, were fashioned with shoulder straps and full, floor-length skirts. With these were worn short jackets of the same material, they having short puffed sleeves, and accordion pleated ruffles about the neck and at the bottom of the sleeves. Headdress for each was formed of pink roses and blue delphinium, and each carried an arm bouquet of flowers in that combination. Slippers were of silver.

One hundred were entertained at a reception and wedding breakfast at the Knights of Columbus home.

For a three-day trip to New York City, Mrs. McDevitt chose a navy blue jacket ensemble with white collar and cuffs, a white straw hat with trim of navy ribbon, white accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

The newly-weds, both of whom are graduates of St. Mark's school, will make their home with the groom's parents. Gifts of the bride to her attendants were compact; while the groom presented wallets to the best man and usher.

Willkie and McNary To Head Ticket Chosen by G. O. P.

York whom Thomas A. Dewey ousted as that State's national committeeman, Simpson was active for Willkie at the convention. Some opposition has developed against Simpson for fear his election would alienate Dewey, who already has pledged himself to support Willkie in the coming campaign.

Young Rep. Charles A. Halleck, of Indiana, who nominated Willkie, has also been suggested. Halleck would prove a popular choice in Washington, where he has a host of friends among members of Congress. His appointment would further put the "accent on youth" started with the nomination of the 48-year-old Willkie, one of the youngest men ever nominated for the Presidency. Gov. Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota, Willkie floor leader, was mentioned too, but authorities said he was unavailable because of his gubernatorial duties.

Members of the old national committee led by former Senator Daniel O. Hastings, of Delaware, are trying to retain Hamilton. They went so far last week as to approve a resolution urging that Hamilton be elected for another four-year-term, regardless of the wishes of the nominee. This gesture, however, will be wasted, if Willkie asks for a new chairman.

Five Deaths Due To Fires Reported in Bucks County

A new fire station has been erected at Plumsteadville. Mention was made by firemen of aid given by Bucks County Rescue Squad from stations at Croydon and Parkland; and also by the Second Alarmers Association of Willow Grove.

Mr. Groome, the president, was one of the speakers of the evening; as were also Assemblyman Stockham, Morrisville; and Willard Curtin, Morrisville, assistant district attorney of Bucks County. This trio dwelt mainly on co-operation, with Mr. Stockham telling that lack of co-operation is responsible for conditions in Europe today.

Thirty-three companies responded to roll call; and group singing was accompanied by pianist, Mr. Reiff, of Silverdale.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the county, likewise held election, and this group was formally welcomed by chief burgess Harley Apple, of Perkasie, who also extended a welcome to the fireman. For the women, Mrs. Mary Colbert, Treviso, responded.

The following officers who were elected, were also installed last evening under direction of Mrs. Alice Wenner, Morrisville; President, Mrs. Emma Gehman, Perkasie; 1st vice president, Mrs. John Whyte, Cornwells Heights; 3rd vice president, Mrs. Clara Roberts, Treviso; recording secretary, Mrs. Louis Leedom, Yardley; financial secretary, Mrs. Raymond Strunk, Quakertown; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Colbert, Treviso; trustees, Mrs. Anna Johnson, Langhorne, three years; Mrs. Wenner, two years; Mrs. Martha Stoneback, Quakertown, one year. In honor of the memory of Mrs. Louis Schlatter, late of Langhorne, the office of second vice-president which she had filled, was left vacant for a period of one year.

Entertainment for the Auxiliary was provided by: Jean Barndt, recitation; Elaine Yeger, accordion solos; Grace Snyder, readings; the Misses Barbara and Mary Lou Kramer, instrumental duets, with Miss Betty Landenberger, as accompanist.

Refreshments were served to both groups at the fire station.

At one o'clock today the new pump of Sellersville and Silverdale Company will be housed at Sellersville. At two p. m., the fire siren will signal the start of the parade, which will be 2½ miles, serpentine fashion in the streets of this borough.

The paraders will be led by Pennsylvania Motor Police, Perkasie police, chief burgess and council members of Perkasie, officials of the county firemen's organization, the Philadelphia County Rescue Squad from stations at Croydon and Parkland; and also by Fire Companies, then five divisions including fire companies and auxiliaries throughout the county.

Eight main prizes and three special awards will be given.
